Aug. 2, 2010 -- Rejection triggers responses in the body that can increase a person's risk for maladies such as asthma, arthritis, cardiovascular disease, and depression, a new study says.

Scientists at UCLA recruited 124 healthy young adults to participate in a lab-based test aimed at determining whether social stress such as rejection causes inflammation, which can have detrimental effects on mental and physical health.

<sup>30</sup> They went out of the town and were coming to him.

John 4:39-42 ESV

<sup>39</sup> Many Samaritans from that town believed in him because of the woman's testimony, "He told me all that I ever did."

<sup>40</sup> So when the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to stay with them, and he stayed there two days.

John 4:39-42 ESV

And many more believed because of his word. <sup>42</sup> They said to the woman, “It is no longer because of what you said that we believe, for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this is indeed the Savior of the world.”
